3. AmeriCorps Volunteers Join Office of Neighborhoods
4. MPC Recommends Child Care in Neighborhoods
5. Neighborhood and Government Calendar

Published by the City of Knoxville's Office of Neighborhoods to report news important to Knoxville's residential neighborhoods. Deadline for news & calendar items: 9 a.m. Friday.

1. Deadline Next Week to Sign Up for 2014 Leadership Training Class

Are you looking for ways to improve the quality of life in your neighborhood?

Would you like to start a neighborhood group --- or energize an existing group?

Do you need support in your role as an officer, committee chair or active member? Tips on how to run an effective meeting? Ideas on recruiting new members and new leaders?

These are among the many topics addressed in "Building Strong Neighborhood Organizations" --- the leadership training class offered by the Office of Neighborhoods.

According to Corina Buffalow, coordinator of the Delrose Drive Neighborhood Watch and one of 18 graduates of the 2013 class, the program offers fellowship with community-minded Knoxvilleans in a positive environment, guided encouragement, focused challenges (i.e., role-playing scenarios), and various organizational tools from facilitators.

The deadline to sign up for this year's class is Wednesday, August 20.

Sessions will be held from 6 p.m. until 8 p.m. on Thursday evenings, starting September 4 and ending November 13. The class will be held at a location near downtown Knoxville.

The program was created specifically for participants in and leaders of resident-led, resident-controlled neighborhood groups --- as well as individuals who would like to start neighborhood associations in unorganized neighborhoods.

Topics include styles of leadership, identifying and building a neighborhood's most important asset, how to facilitate effective meetings, recruiting and retaining members, internal and external communications, decision-making, conflict resolution, and strategic planning.

Participants will receive a textbook, "Building Powerful Community Organizations," along with a 3-ring binder of numerous "how-to" articles on various aspects of creating and sustaining community-based organizations. Participants will be asked to donate $35 to defray the cost of the course, but scholarships are available.

Seating is limited. Apply online at https://www.surveymonkey.com/s/BSNO_Application.

For a hard copy, or to ask questions about the class, call David Massey, Office of Neighborhoods, at 215-3232.

2. Event to Offer Ideas on Building Neighborhood Resilience

The Knoxville Permaculture Guild is inviting neighborhood leaders and other interested citizens to a community event designed to help neighborhoods create stronger mutual relationships and social networks, improve local economies, prepare for disasters such as massive storms or chemical spills, and lower our collective environmental impact.

“Join the Guild and guest speaker Dylan Ryals-Hamilton for a lively presentation and discussion on making our neighborhoods and communities more connected, abundant, and secure for us all,” states the invitation to the event. “Dylan brings stories, models, and proven strategies already being applied on the streets and in thousands of cities and towns across the globe.”

Ryals-Hamilton teaches permaculture and sustainable design and is an active member of Transition Asheville.

“We believe Dylan has accumulated useful information that is not often come across. It should be a fun talk with ideas and examples of things going on in other cities that you may not be aware of,” the Guild advises.

The event runs from 4 p.m. until 6 p.m. Saturday, August 23, at 2112 East Magnolia, where Tribe One used to be located. Participants will then be invited to gather at The Public House “for happy hour and further informal discussion.”

For more, contact Chad Hellwinckel at chellwin@utk.edu or 974-5006,

3. AmeriCorps Volunteers Join Office of Neighborhoods

The Office of Neighborhoods will advance two pilot projects with the help of AmeriCorps volunteers who have joined the Office of Neighborhoods in the city’s Community Development Department.

Travis Nissen will coordinate the Neighborhood Working Group, where city staff and neighborhood organizations discuss specific blighted properties and strategies for combatting the impacts of blight. Participants must first take the “Fight the Blight” workshop, which will be offered again next spring. He takes over these duties from Tina Belge, who got these programs off the ground last year.

Travis graduated last May from the University of Wisconsin with a degree in architecture. He has participated in a number of design studios, helped design a Jazz & Hip Hop Center in Milwaukee, and worked with award-winning Japanese architect Sou Fujimoto on a pavilion for an abandoned lot in post-industrial Milwaukee.

Contact Travis at 215-3077 or tnissen@cityofknoxville.org.

Griff Ashooh will promote emergency preparedness at the neighborhood level. Working with the Knoxville Knox County Emergency Management Agency (KEMA), as well as the police and fire departments and other area agencies, he will put the finishing touches on a Neighborhood Disaster Preparedness Plan that will be marketed to neighborhoods beginning this fall. He assumes the role played by Natalie Crone last year.

Griff graduated in 2013 from the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg, Va., with a degree in Government. He volunteered at a juvenile detention center, where he taught a class on hip hop history. He spent the summer of 2012 in Kenya, where he organized community members to address water shortages. He is certified in both CPR and pediatric first aid.

Griff can be reached at 215-3456 and gashooh@cityofknoxville.org.

Also volunteering with the city this year are Rebecca Gronewold (CAC AmeriCorps City of Knoxville Greenways Ranger), Rachael Bramblett (CAC AmeriCorps City of Knoxville Solid Waste Team Member), and Caley Hyatt (Pellissippi State AmeriCorps Vista, Office of Sustainability).

Approximately 40 AmeriCorps members deployed throughout Knox County are sponsored by the Knoxville Knox County Community Action Committee (CAC) with support from its partner agencies.

Created in 1993, AmeriCorps is a national program placing committed volunteers in service oriented positions at schools, nonprofits, government agencies, and faith-based organizations. Annually over 80,000 volunteers serve around the country. Members assist local communities in dealing with environmental issues, community development, food security and disaster relief. Members serve in a variety of capacities, either directly or indirectly engaging issues while striving to make the world a better place.

4. MPC Recommends Child Care in Neighborhoods

The Metropolitan Planning Commission this week approved changes to the Knoxville zoning ordinance which would allow small child care services to be offered in a caregiver's home as a use by right in all residential zones.

The proposals will go to Knoxville City Council, where the provisions must be approved twice, in two separate meetings, to become law. The two readings would take place at City Council meetings in September.

First, MPC amended the definition of "private day nurseries" as an agency, organization or individual providing care for five or fewer --- rather than six or fewer --- children not related to the caregiver. This change aligns with the threshold at which the State of Tennessee regulates childcare facilities. Such facilities would still require a "use on review" to operate in a residential neighborhood.

Second, MPC suggests adding a new child care category --- "child day care service" --- which could be provided, for a fee, for the care of four or fewer children who are not related to the primary caregiver, for less than 18 hours per day. The new wrinkle here is that such services could be operated as a use-by-right in all residential zones.

Third, MPC recommends a number of standards that such small services would have to observe, such as 1) the house must be the primary residence of the primary caregiver, 2) signs advertising the service are prohibited, and 3) any child play equipment stored outside 24/7 must be located in the rear yard.

Mary Thom Adams, a resident of the Holston Hills neighborhood, spoke in favor of the changes, citing a dozen reasons why they would benefit the city, including more options for accessible and affordable child care. MPC Chairwoman Rebecca Longmire said she had received more emails in favor of the changes than any other item that has been on an MPC agenda.

See <http://agenda.knoxmpc.org/2014/aug2014/4-A-14-OA.pdf> for a full copy of the staff report on this item. The only change to this recommendation is that the word "instruction" was dropped from the definition of child day care service. Former City Councilwoman Carlene Malone argued in favor of dropping that word to avoid confusion with other parts of the zoning code.
